Frederick Cooper (Birmingham) Ltd. is delighted to announce a new partnership with Aston University on the Low Carbon SMEs project that aims to reduce energy consumption and carbon emissions.

The Opportunity

Co-financed by the University and the European Regional Development Fund (ERDF) the initiative will see university academics provide expertise to support Frederick Cooper in developing holistic energy efficient solutions that lead to higher productivity and overall business success.

Steve Bridgewater, Quality Manager at Frederick Cooper said, 'At Frederick Cooper we are committed to reducing our environmental footprint and as such we are always keen to explore new initiatives and technologies.'

'This is an exciting opportunity for Frederick Cooper and other small and medium-sized enterprises (SMEs) across the region to take advantage of access to specialist support. I congratulate Steve and his team for their forward thinking approach.'

John Kyffin- Hughes, Business Engagement Manager (Aston Business School, Aston University) added,
